« Sister Wives », a really good short film

Plusieurs classes de seconde de notre lycée sont allées voir une sélection de courts métrages durant le festival This is England au cinéma CGR Odéon de Cherbourg. Les films étaient vraiment intéressants, mais l'un d'entre eux est vraiment sorti du lot. Son titre ? Sister Wives. Parmi toutes nos critiques cinématographiques, nous vous proposons une critique de ce film dans la langue de Shakespeare.

The story of Sister Wives is dramatic. This short film is realized by the screenwriter Louisa Connolly-Burnham and it was released in 2024.

Sister Wives is the story of two young women, Kaidence and Galilee. They are married to the same man. They are very religious, and the community of the two women is very strict. Kaidence and Galilee live together. One day, when their husband is absent, the sister wives fall in love, and they have a romantic feelings for each other.

My opinion : I really liked this short film. I found that the acting and the direction were all exceptional. It will win all the awards this year. For my part, I found the theme very interesting. Because as far as I'm concerned, I find that homosexuality is too discriminated in the Christian religion in 2024 and not just in the Christian religion ! The film really makes you think, it is very emotional, you really feel the sensitivity of the characters. Sister Wives is romantic, surprising, gripping and simply great. I really recommend this film !
